SPECIFICS OF THE PARAMON I

+++ Paramon a Greek word that precisely means "Extraordinary preparation" as the word Paramount in English, which signifies something of great concern or importance. This naming is used for the day that precedes the feasts of Nativity or Epiphany.

+++ Meaning: It's a day of intense spiritual preparation, a "vigil" or watch before a great feast.

+++ Prayer: All hours of the Agpeya (Book of Hours) are prayed, extending to the 12th hour, even if the feast falls on a day that normally allows relaxation.

+++ Timing:

- o If the Paramon falls on a Sunday or Monday, we should fast (with abstinence) the day before which is usually a Friday. In this case, the Paramon becomes two or three days. If the Feast falls on a Sunday, we would have a two-day Paramon, Friday & Saturday. If it falls on a Monday, we would have a three-day Paramon, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday and no eating of fish during these Paramon days, however abstinence would be on Friday only. For Example, this year Epiphany is on Monday. Therefore, Paramon will be on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.
- o If the feasts of Nativity or Epiphany fall on any day other than Sunday or Monday, the Paramon becomes only one day like for Nativity this year.

+++ Purpose: To cleanse the heart, focus on repentance, and spiritually prepare to receive the joy and significance of the upcoming feast. In essence, Paramon is the Coptic Orthodox way of making the day before a major feast a profoundly holy time of deep spiritual focus, contrasting it with the festive nature of the feast itself.
